FAVOR GENEROUS PROVISIONS.

President Wilson's insistence that the proposed life insurance limit for officers and men in the national army should be $10,000 instead of $5,000 voices the feeling of a vast number of people. Nothing which can add to the comfort and safety of soldiers in the service, nothing at all reasonable in provision for dependent relatives of soldiers, will be too much for the ideas of the people. Those who cannot fight—who cannot make sacrifices at the front—are willing to make sacrifices at home.

POISONOUS GAS.

It takes Theodore Roosevelt to use unique words and phrases and to make references which are not lost in a day but passed along for their aptness. He said the other day that fighting with "poisonous gas" is not confined to the trenches of Europe—that a warfare with like weapons is being carried on by certain unpatriotic pacifists in the U. S. The ex-president was not at the time referring to Mayor Thompson of Chicago and Congressman Mason of this state, but the statement nevertheless is very applicable to them.

THE ADVANTAGE OF LIGHT DIET.

As newspapers are now pointing out, one of Thomas Jefferson's ten great rules for living will find special favor in the eyes of Herbert Hoover, food administrator. The great Jefferson's maxim was "One never regrets having eaten too little." If Mr. Hoover and his assistants thru-out the country can but persuade people to take these words as a motto to many of the ills of the flesh will be remedied and the food supply will be distinctly conserved.

It has long been the saying of a well known Jacksonville physician and surgeon that the cause of most of the health troubles people have is found in the fact that they eat too much. This physician, by the way, constantly follows a very simple diet and as he is generally in good health can testify that the troubles are few that come from a light diet.

HANDS ACROSS THE SEA.

There will be an impressive ceremonial on two continents today. The American flag will be hoisted over Independence Hall at Philadelphia in honor of the birthday of Lafayette.

At the same hour a duplicate flag will be raised above the Hotel de Ville in Paris. This ceremonial of national moment will serve to bind even closer than in the past—if that is possible—the hearts of the French people and the American people. The friendship which has lived thru the years intervening since the gallant Lafayette gave such a potent help to this struggling republic, has been intensified by world events of recent happening.

The cordial friendship so clearly manifested when the French mission visited this country is still fresh in the minds of the people and stories from abroad tell how greatly impressed the French people were with the reception given their representatives here. Certainly hands are nowadays "stretching across the sea" in a way we never dreamed of a few years since.

THE MEANING OF THE WAR HAS COME.

Morgan county people sensed the great war, yesterday as they have not done before. As the parade in honor of the first detachment of soldiers going to Camp Taylor moved thru the streets it was between lines of thousands. The parade was devoid of the spectacular. There was no hilarity. There was applause now and then, but at times the silence was almost oppressive, when nothing was heard above the tramp, tramp tramp of the marchers. It was very evident to an onlooker that the hearts of those in the parade and those who watched were stirred by a realization of the seriousness of the day. Patriotic feeling clutched at the throat with sobering effect.

At the C. & A. station where the six men entrained the crowd was dense. There were several thousand people on the station platform and the territory adjacent. The band stationed nearby played martial music. There were flags aloft and some cheering, but in the main it was apparent that the people felt too deeply moved for mere words.

When the members of Co. B left Jacksonville there was a crowd at the station to cheer them, but the spirit was different from that which prevailed yesterday. It was not because local people had any less regard for the militiamen, but times have changed materially since that earlier entrainment of troops. Then many of those who saw the boys leave at the station thought that they were going away simply to guard private or public property during a period of a few months and would soon return. Most people thought that day that the U. S. participation in the war would be largely a matter of moral and money support. They thought too, that the end of 1917 would likely see the closing days of the world conflict.

During the time intervening since the going of those first troops the people have come to realize that the U. S. government is preparing for three years of warfare; that America's participation in the war is to be of the most active kind; that thousands of U. S. soldiers will be sent to the French front and thus that this country will bear its full share of the brunt of actual warfare.

The passage of the conscription law served a first forcible notice upon the people of the meaning of this war. Then came registration day. Later on the call was issued for the first quota of soldiers. The physical examinations were held, exemption board findings were made known and finally came the call for the first detachment and the naming of the day on which they would start for camp. As these events followed one after another there gradually came to the hearts and minds of the people a realization of the meaning of the war. Yesterday's parade and farewell to the soldiers brought the climax to that war realization.

Yes, Morgan county people have now sensed the meaning of this war as they have not done before. They have shown a seriousness of purpose—a willingness for sacrifice—which means that they are now full ready and willing to do their part no matter in how personal a way war sorrows may touch their lives.

Rippling Rhymes
By WALT MASON

LOOKING FORWARD

The world will be a better place when kaiserism meets its doom, for then the well known human race will see true liberty in bloom. For years the kaiser's been a threat, e'en when he talked of peace the most; he made the whole world go in debt for ships and guns and armored host. If some one lives next door to me, of whom I live in constant fear, I may be nominally free, but freedom of that sort is dear. I have to keep a bulldog pup, a loaded shotgun and a creese, a large stuffed club to beat him up, is he attempts to break the peace. I never know when he may come, on some excuse, all full of fight, to knock my plexus out of plumb, and so I cannot sleep at night. It's vain to tell me I am free, that laws protect me, and police; while that man lives next door to me all empty is your boon of peace. Thus to the world has Kaiser Bill a menace been, a nightmare threat; while talking peace he yearned to kill, and soak the globe in carnage wet. Because of him the nations bore a load that sapped their strength away, and manufactured tools of gore, instead of tools for baling hay. When kaiserism is suppressed, when it goes down with sick'ning thud, the world will have a long sweet rest from all this talk of war and blood.

SPECULATE ABOUT COLLEGE ATTENDANCE

Enrollment of Students at Institutions May Reflect War Conditions—Young People Urged not to Change College Plans.

It is yet too early to be able to approximate the number who will be in attendance at local colleges this fall. If the country were not involved in war, there would be no question about this year being a banner year in regard to numbers.

The abundance of grain crops and the high prices which the farmers are receiving for their products makes it certain that other conditions being favorable many more young men and women would be able to take advantage of college training this year than has been true in past years when money among the farmers and small town people was not so plentiful. But with the war, there are a great many instances where the sons have been drafted or have volunteered in the service of their country and the daughters think it their duty to remain at home and give up thoughts of continuing or beginning a college education. That many parents agree with their daughters at this time is also apparent.

However many leading educators and public officials have pointed to the mistake of allowing young people to change their educational plans. The government is issuing bulletins on this subject now and is urging the young people of the country to continue their college courses and to help keep up the present high efficiency of our schools and colleges and to train themselves for professional work in various lines.

The danger and trouble is, however, that these bulletins of the government authorities may reach the people too late to be of benefit this year. People whose sons and daughters drop out of colleges this fall will begin to realize their mistake when it is too late. So, with this state of affairs existing, the matter of enrollment for colleges is uncertain. Locally it is known that attendance at the colleges will be large but the record of former years may not be surpassed.

S. JACKSONVILLE BOARD HOLDS REGULAR SESSION

Ordinance Passed Creating Board of Local Improvements—New Fire Chief to be Named in Place of H. A. Brewer—Automobile Speed Laws to be Enforced—Sewer System Contemplated.

At the regular meeting of the village board of South Jacksonville Wednesday evening an ordinance was passed creating a board of local improvements. Member Goebel chairman of the sewer committee also presented an estimate of the probable cost of a sewer system for the village.

Roll call showed all members present with President Berryman in the chair and E. E. Beasly, clerk. The minutes of the last regular session were read and approved. All properly approved bills were ordered paid and officers reports were read and received and placed on file.

Recently H. A. Brewer who was appointed fire chief removed from the village causing a vacancy. The fire committee and President Berryman were instructed to appoint his successor, with power to act.

Member Goebel then presented an estimate of the cost of a sewer system for the village. Tentative plans were drawn some time ago and Mr. Goebel's figures were based on these plans. The report was received and placed on file for future reference and it is possible that the matter will be taken up at an early date.

An ordinance providing for the creating of a board of local improvements was presented. The ordinance carried an emergency clause and was adopted with the emergency clause attached. The ordinance provides that the improvement board shall consist of the president and entire village board.

Action also was taken regarding automobile speeding in the village. The clerk was instructed to publish a notice of warning to all automobile drivers that violation of the ordinances of the village will be vigorously prosecuted.

FARM NOTES

Corn Damage Reports Vary.

Reports of damage to corn vary greatly with the locality and the greater amount of damage seems to have been done west and southwest of Jacksonville. R. G. Vasey stated yesterday that some corn on his land had been leveled and a part of it had been broken off. His idea was that the damage would not be great except where the stalks are absolutely broken.

Charles Lewis, who has a considerable acreage of corn on his land a few miles southwest of Jacksonville, has estimated that the crop there was damaged to the extent of ten bushels to the acre.

Dr. J. W. Hairgrove's estimate of the damage to corn on his farm just west of Jacksonville, based on the report of J. B. Shibe who lives on the farm, is 25 bushels to the acre. The crop was especially heavy on a part of this land and the promise was for a yield of 80 bushels to the acre. Before any really definite data can be secured of the corn crop damage some days and possibly weeks must intervene. There is an excellent chance for much of the town crop to straighten, at least enough to keep the ears from being grazed and so prevent rotting. Continued rains would increase the possibility of damage from moisture and a few weeks of dry weather would lessen this danger.

It is true, however, that the storm damage will cause some expense even if the corn is not greatly injured, because it will increase the cost of cutting. The storm has meant also a change of crop plans for some farmers who had intended to drill wheat in the standing corn. Now that the corn is down it will be impossible to use the one horse drills and something other than wheat must be planted for next year or else a little later the corn must be shocked and the wheat sown.

Sold Hogs at Good Price

G. A. Leach living west of Jacksonville recently marketed a load of hogs of his own raising at $18 per hundred. The hogs averaged 260 pounds each and were of fine quality. Mr. Leach has fed hogs with success thru a period of years and is a thoro believer in combining livestock with grain farming.

Mrs. Naomi Martis, 325 E. Morgan, is representative for Spirella and Barclay Corsets.

PATRIOTISM MARKS
MEETING OF MINISTERS

Work of M. E. Conference at Champaign Weir Under Way—One District May be Absorbed in Others.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 5.—Flags, flags, everywhere,—likewise uniformed troops, volunteers, selected men for the new army in line of parade and the whole atmosphere somber or bright with color of war. Even the church where the conference is held permits no uncertainty regarding the attitude taken in the new phase of a world war. Extending out over the sidewalk, from a flag staff, is a fine silk banner, while within, the pulpit has a shield of the American emblem—and the pipe organ is gracefully draped with another silk flag.

Patriotic Address.
And to mark the key note of the occasion, the first service, given over to the Board of Missions on Tuesday evening was an address by Dr. George Heber Jones, editor of the missionary publications of the church, of New York, on Missions and the World Situation.

The central thought of the fine address was in addition to President Wilson's declaration, "To make the world safe for Democracy," the church comes to permeate that democracy and "Make it safe for the world." Such a tempered democracy is needed in America,—how much more so is it needed in the orient where men are let loose from autocracy to govern themselves. "Will there ever be another world war?" he inquired. "We hope not. But we had hoped the same, concerning the world before this war came. In Asia there are eight hundred millions of people just awakening from an age-long sleep. If justice and equity prevail, and democracy be permeated with the spirit of Christianity, these people will be cooperative with the rest of the world in sustaining democratic institutions. But if left to themselves, and the intrigue of cunning diplomats, from that center will arise during this or the next century a far more fearful world struggle for supremacy."

Opening Session.
Promptly at the appointed hour, Bishop Nicholson began the devotional services, and called the Illinois Conference to order for its 94th session.

After the re-election of all the old officers, and a memorial address by Rev. M. G. Coleman of Taylorville, the regular session of business occupied the entire morning, and was carried forward expeditiously under the master hand of the Bishop. Several district superintendents reported the progress of church work, under their supervision.

It is believed that an attempt will be made to eliminate one district from the group of eight and readjust the lines in the conference, so as to include but seven. An open pulpit at Hoopeston, makes it possible to do this, and provide for Dr. C. F. Baker.

Personal Notes.
Rev. W. S. Phillips, is at his well sustained post as Conference chorister, and lead in the song services at each session.

Mrs. J. C. Nate is preparing to leave again for Colorado Springs, where her daughter Elizabeth is convalescing and to which place Joseph Jr., departed alone, a few days ago. Miss Mildred has a position in the high school faculty of Champaign for the year and will be her father's companion.

Rev. J. F. McAnnally is not improving from the accident in the automobile wreck of the summer, though he has left the hospital and is now in Chicago he will not be able to take a charge this coming year.

A larger number of preachers are being entertained at the hotels than usual. Most of these are self-entertainers.

The weather is fine for the session and a larger attendance than usual is noted.

50TH ANNIVERSARY
CELEBRATED

The fiftieth anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Brown was celebrated Thursday Aug. 30th at their home 502 E. Chambers St. It was an enthusiastic day the anniversary reception starting at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and lasting until 11 p. m. The house was beautifully decorated by G. W. Cooper a brother of the bride. The decorations were white and gold.

Promptly at two o'clock the receiving line was formed composed of Mr. and Mrs. Brown, their family and relatives.

Mrs. Brown wore a beautiful canary colored silk trimmed in blue and gold.

Mrs. Fannie Cook of St. Louis, Mo. wore a black silk, Mrs. Mannie Easley of Jacksonville a white embroidered organdie; Mrs. Effie Brown of St. Louis a black crepe de chine; Mrs. Matsy Johnson of St. Louis a white net embroidered in lavender, over white silk; Mrs. Rosa Parker of Jacksonville a rose color foulard silk; Mrs. Cassie Merker of St. Paul, Minn., a sister of Mrs. Brown, wore an Alice blue net over silver cloth embroidered in gold. Mrs. Slater Jones of St. Paul, Minn., a niece, wore a light blue taffeta silk trimmed in silver lace; Mrs. Lenora Brown of St. Paul, a niece, wore a rose pink luxury satin trimmed in gold net banding. The granddaughter—Mrs. Olivia Williams—was in a gray georgette crepe over flowered satin. Another granddaughter, Mrs. Ethel McPike, wore a white satin.

A few musical selections were rendered by Miss Alice Melker of St. Paul, Minn., a niece, who wore a pale green satin trimmed in spangle net. By request little Ruth Brown of St. Paul, Minn., sang "God Sent me You," and "Rose in the Bud." During the hours designated many friends both white and colored called and extended congratulations. Many beautiful gifts and a nice sum of gold was received.

Dainty refreshments were served by the son-in-law, Mr. John Easley. At ten p. m. the large wedding cake which held 50 gold and white candles was lighted. After remarks by G. W. Cooper, a brother of Mrs. Brown, and prayer by Rev. John Kirk, the family and relatives gathered around the table while the cake was cut by Mr. and Mrs. Brown. At eleven p. m. all departed feeling that it was good to be there.

William Fensler who formerly was employed in the fire and police departments and by J. W. Woods bus and baggage line and Bryan Coons who formerly worked for P. Bonansinga are now employed in the Overland factory.

U. S. MARSHAL HERE

A U. S. marshal was here from Springfield yesterday to investigate the case of a Morgan county resident said to have talked quite openly in opposition to the war and in support of the kaiser. The marshal instead of going to the man's residence which is some distance from Jacksonville, left a letter and a copy of the law in the office of Sheriff Graff for delivery to the citizen in question. It is not at all likely that there will be any further unpatriotic talk from that source.

EXHIBITED BREAD FRUIT.
P. Bonansinga yesterday had an exhibition in his fruit store some bread fruit which was grown by J. Edward Young at Jacksonville State hospital. This is a tropical fruit and is in general use by natives and residents of tropical countries.

The fruit is about the size of an ear of corn and resembles green corn and has an outer casing or covering green in color. It has an odor resembling bananas or perhaps more like the American Paw Paw.

It smells and looks good to eat and in these days of high priced flour it might prove a good substitute for bread if secured in sufficient quantities.

WOMAN'S COLLEGE NOTES.

Dr. Joseph R. Harker, president of the Illinois Woman's College, is in Champaign attending the sessions of the Illinois Conference of Methodist churches held here. He expects to be away for several days.

Miss Mothershead has arrived in Jacksonville and is now working on credits that have been sent in.

Mr. C. F. Jensen of the music department at I. W. C. returned to Jacksonville Wednesday from Chicago.

The east side of the east wing building at the Woman's College has been thoroughly cleaned up, the cinders removed and will soon become one of the beauty spots of the institution. Shrubbery will be planted along the east line and a neat courtyard is planned.

A new fire escape has been built on the west side of Music Hall, leading from the balcony proper. Many improvements regarding fire protection have been built during the past summer.

The small organ used for practice work in music hall has been rebuilt so that the college now has two organs in fine shape for the work of the coming year.

But the real show place of the institution is the new gymnasium building which contains the swimming pool. Carpenters were at work Wednesday trimming down the doors a trifle, as the recent wet weather and the water in the pool, caused the wood to swell. This beautiful, well designed building has already been described in the Journal but it would pay any one interested in the college to make a call there and see at first hand what a handsome structure the Illinois Woman's college now has. It will be great asset to the institution in the years to come.

FOUR PIKE COUNTY STUDENTS

Mrs. Grace Wilson Burd of Perry was in Jacksonville yesterday to make arrangements for the coming of a number of young people to Illinois college. Later Mrs. Burd will come with four students from her home town who will be here during the year. They will probably rent a furnished house or a suite of rooms.

the county's registered men Wednesday was fittingly patriotic and gave evidence of the deep interest that the people have in their soldiers and in the principles for which the country is now at war. With soldiers of '61 as their companions the boys of '17 enjoyed a banquet at the Y. M. C. A. building. This banquet had been arranged by the women of the various churches of Jacksonville. Their motto evidently was "Nothing too good for our soldiers," and they carried out the spirit of that motto most generously. The menu was excellent and the brief program which followed the serving was in every way appropriate. Later on came the parade and it was one which fittingly honored the new soldiers and expressed the feeling of the people.

Streets Were Crowded

The business district was crowded with people and the same was true along the line of march to the station. Flags were many and the Jacksonville band, augmented by musicians from Beardstown, furnished a fine program. The parade was impressive not only because of its length and the various individuals and organizations represented, but also because of the evidence of deep feeling on the part of the spectators. There was some applause, some cheering, yet there was also the evidence of suppressed feeling, the knowledge that that parade was a different kind from one seen on the eve of political contests or as a part of a 4th of July celebration. The people were thinking more of the meaning of that parade than they were of the parade itself. In every way the arrangements of the day were well ordered.

The gathering at the Y. M. C. A. was indeed a splendid affair. Some sixty old soldiers sat down to dinner, nearly a hundred registered men, in addition to ministers, Boy Scouts, W. R. C. ladies and some others. There were about two hundred plates and nearly all were put to use. As the veterans were waiting to march to the hall the question of age arose and it was ascertained that Columbus Hairgrove, nearly ninety, was the oldest one present and Ezra Scott, 68, was the youngest.

The general executive committee appointed by Mr. Weir was composed of Secretary J. S. Findley, Mrs. William Floreth and Miss Anna Ferguson, president of the Woman's Relief Corps. They in turn selected from each church to assist in the work as follows: Baptist church, Mrs. J. W. Chipchase; Central Christian, Mrs. George Harney; Congregational, Mrs. Ebenezer Spink; Grace, Mrs. Dr. Atherton; Trinity Episcopal, Mrs. E. W. Book; Mrs. J. H. Clements; Centenary, Mrs. T. H. Rapp; State street, Mrs. J. H. Danskin; Northminster, Mrs. Emma Smith; Church of St. Mary, Mrs. Naomi Martis; Westminster, Mrs. Paul Alexander.

A Veritable Sea of Flags.
The decorating committee consisted of Mrs. W. D. Doying, Mrs. J. H. Danskin, Mr. Badger and A. R. Weddell. In the hands of these four the gymnasium was a veritable sea of national colors and flags and told in no uncertain manner the loyalty of those in charge. Even the napkins had the red, white and blue and the eagle on them. Fine music was supplied by the opera house orchestra during the dinner, and it was much enjoyed. Each plate was supplied with a nice flower for the button hole of the wearer. A full corps of ladies was on hand and each wore a cap of red, white and blue and looked decidedly loyal. The management said it was especially gratifying to see how all the churches entered heartily into the work and supply of the dinner. Their thanks are tendered for the generosity of all.

The divine blessing was invoked by Rev. M. L. Pontius and then all proceeded to enjoy the dinner which was simply excellent and most bountiful in quantity and admirably served. There were nearly 200 guests all were helped promptly and in a satisfactory manner. After all had eaten Mayor Rodgers took the chair and said in his address:

Will Uphold the Nation's Flag
"We have met here today to honor the men who are soon to go to the front. It is a privilege to meet here today with the veterans of the Grand Army and the Woman's Relief Corps to show the appreciation of the community for these young men who are to leave us today and those who will be called later. It takes decision to do all things. It took decision of the president to declare war and the board has tried honorably to select men who will do their duty. Six young men are to go forward today to the camp in Kentucky and we are here to honor and cheer them and show them what we think of them. They are the best and will nobly uphold the flag of the nation. In the camp they will find good preparation for them; the Y. M. C. A. and Red Cross have authorized by the government and will try by every possible means to do everything to make life pleasant for the soldiers. This has roused the people to see the need of the soldiers for such enterprises as the Y. M. C. A. and Red Cross. Young men in the army need help in overcoming evil habits and temptations. We all know what we should do but young men in war are apt to forget and yield to temptation. I have visited several camps and have seen the grand work done by these organizations and know their value. The entertainments and other things are of greatest value. The hearts of the whole community will go with these young men as they leave for their duty at the front."

FRED STEWART
Second Lieutenant in National Army,
Now Serving with Machine Gun
Company at Camp Grant.
Lieutenant Stewart is a son of Mrs. C. M. Stewart of 1309 West College avenue. He was awarded his commission at the Ft. Sheridan training camp.

Ready To Answer Country's Call.
Mrs. Percy Jenkinson then entertained the company with a solo finely sung, after which W. L. Andre, for his five comrades said:

"We thank the ladies who prepared this fine banquet and fully appreciate all they have done for us. Not one of us is at all unwilling to go to the call of our country. We shall do our utmost to defend the flag, do honor to the homes and country we have left and strive to uphold the flag in the great war for democracy in the world."

The six young men then arose and were introduced to the audience and all were heartily cheered. Rev. W. E. Spoons called for a chautauqua salute and three cheers for the boys and they were heartily given and then F. M. Coard proposed three cheers for Gov. Lowden for cutting down the cousins of the kaiser who were trying to oppose the government and these cheers were heartily given.

Major C. E. McDougall then read the following resolutions prepared by Capt. J. M. Swales and they were adopted with applause:

Resolutions Adopted.

Whereas, The United States having been forced into the world war which is devastating a large portion of the nations beyond the sea; and Whereas, The call has come for Morgan county to furnish its first contingent to participate in the giant struggle for freedom and universal democracy as against autocracy backed by the mailed fist of Prussian military despotism, and Whereas, We have met today to celebrate the departure of our country's first call in the selective draft, therefore be it

Resolved, That we, as members of the Grand Army of the Republic, Woman's Relief Corps, Spanish-American war veterans and the loyal citizens of Jacksonville and Morgan county, take this occasion to express our confidence and faith in the patriotism of these young soldiers of the new Grand Army of the Republic, feeling that wherever Old Glory shall point the way, they will give their full measure of devotion to their God, their country and the flag we place in their keeping as they go forth to die, if necessary, rather than free government and democracy shall perish from the earth.

Resolved, That we have an abiding faith in their valor, whether on land or sea, to see to it that the glorious old banner the Grand Army of the Sixties bore in victory from Fort Sumter to Appomattox, will never touch the ground or trail in the dust and dishonor of defeat, and "fervently do we hope and devoutly do we pray" that the day is not far distant when we shall again greet them as conquering heroes when they return from fields of victory over tyranny with their brows crowned with the laurel wreath of victory, and with added lustre to the shining folds of the symbol of our nation's power and fadeless glory, which has waved in triumph since our fathers handed it down to us from the days of '76, and "When freedom from her mountain height Unfurled her Standard to the air, She tore the azure robe of night And fixed the Stars of Glory there, Forever float that Standard Sheet, Where breathes the foe, but falls before us, With freedom's soil beneath our feet And freedom's banner streaming o'er us."

And to these gallant young men we wish abundant success along the path where duty calls, and may the enemy never see the color of their knapsacks, and with a bon voyage from the heart we say, "God be with you till we meet again!" In the days when war shall be no more.

Percy Jenkinson then sang with great acceptance a solo and the benediction was pronounced by Dr. A. H. Forey and as they dispersed "God Bless Our Noble Boys" was sung with a will.

Many pressed forward to shake the hands of the six young men and after the exercises, the old soldiers formed in front of the building by request and the registered men filed along and each shook hands with the old fellows in line. The parade moved promptly at 3 o'clock, forming on West State street and moving around the south side of the square and along East State street to the Chicago & Alton station. Capt. John E. Wright was the chief marshal and his aides were Wesley James, C. C. Berryman and S. O. Shuff. The standard bearer was W. H. Mosely of Pisgah, chosen for this post because of his patriotism and his splendid physique, as he stands 6 feet 6 inches in height. He was followed by a platoon of police and the Jacksonville band led by Major W. H. Dalton.

Many Veterans in Line

No parade in recent years has seen so many veterans of the Civil war. They turned out in large numbers for this parade—men with gray hair whose steps were tottering. They were unwilling to ride out but wanted to march to the station and wave their farewell to the departing soldiers. These veterans were followed in the parade by members of the Woman's Relief Corps and by women representing the church aid societies who served the banquet to the soldiers. Then came a group of Spanish war veterans, followed by the six men of Morgan county's first squad. A white automobile driven by Mrs. T. C. MacVicar bore the red Cross emblem and had as passengers three Morgan county Red Cross nurses subject to call, Miss Lucy Mount, Miss Martha Coale and Miss Ruth Stadler. Officers and directors of the Red Cross chapter walked after this car, preceding members of the exemption board. Nearly all of the men in the first call were in line and after them came a large contingent of registered men, some of whom will later be called to service. The local Boy Scouts organization was well represented and all county and city officials marched with flags.

Ministers Led Citizens

Members of the Jacksonville Ministerial association walked at the head of a body of citizens. Eight or ten of these citizens carried an immense flag and each of the others in the line bore a smaller flag. Finally came the auto driven fire engines, hose wagon and hook and ladder of the Jacksonville fire department and numerous decorated automobiles. The arrangements for the parade were in charge of John W. Larson and Carl H. Weber, and the number of those who took part was surprising even to the committee on arrangements.

At the C. & A. station a great crowd assembled and Jacksonville band with the aid of twenty four musicians who came from Beardstown played a number of patriotic selections. The train on which these Beardstown men came was late but they were able to join the parade at Clay avenue. Relatives and friends crowded around the six new soldiers to say farewells and to wish them good luck. The station platform was so dense with humanity that many who wanted to reach the group of soldiers for a goodbye hand clasp could not do so.

Parting Message of Local Board

Just before the train pulled out Miller Weir, as president of the exemption board, addressed the men briefly as he delivered to W. L. Andre as captain of the squad, certain records and papers in accordance with the rules laid down by the government. Mr. Weir spoke briefly but impressively. "You are going forward," he said, "today as the advance guard of Morgan county's quota. We tender you to the government today and we urge upon you the importance of recognizing military authority. The government expects you to be careful of your conduct and to arrive at the army camp tomorrow in the best of condition. You are picked men, chosen because of your special qualifications and we believe that you will live up to the responsibility which rests upon you. We can assure you of the honor and esteem in which you are being held by the people of this county and can assure you, too, of our loyal support while you are in service at the front. May God bless you and in His good time bring you back safely to your home community."

The envelope which Mr. Weir delivered to Mr. Andre contained, list of the men in the squad; copy of the registration card of each man; copy of the physical examination report of each man; one railroad ticket for each man; tickets for eighteen meals; one copy of the mobilization regulations; telegraph blanks. Very soon the train pulled out, as the assembly of thousands as one man waved farewell.

Notes
One of the most attractive features of the parade was the handsome silk flag with golden eagles presented to Trinity church by Hon. Andrew Russell. The flag was carried by Andrew Russell, Jr., with John Russell and Alexander Russell as guard of honor.

Three Red Cross nurses were in the parade yesterday, the only ones of the Morgan county group who were able to be present. There are seven Red Cross nurses in Morgan county, those in addition to the three previously named being Misses Ella Walker, Velma Davies, Mabel Reid and Sadie Guild.

CHAPIN PEOPLE GAVE PROGRAM FOR SOLDIERS

FIVE HUNDRED CROWDED INTO HALL TO HEAR ADDRESSES.

Jacksonville Attorneys Had Part in Program and Pointed to Meaning of the War—Musical Numbers Added to Patriotic Spirit.

Wednesday evening proved a red letter occasion for the honor men of Uncle Sam's new national army who are to be called from Chapin vicinity when the residents of that community gathered to congratulate and give a word of good cheer to the boys as they leave.

Ratio McKinney was chairman of the affair and under his able management everything moved smoothly and on scheduled time. The hall was beautifully decorated in American flags and bunting and this work was done under the efficient direction of Mrs. Frank Burnham. The Red Cross girls who sang a selection were directed by Miss Hazel Antrobbs. There are ten or twelve of the Chapin boys drafted in this first call and most of them expect to go about the 18th or 19th of this month.

The Program.

There were about five hundred people present at the Amuse-U theatre last night and proved an enthusiastic audience. The following program was carried out:

Song—Red, White and Blue, by the Red Cross girls.

Invocation by the Rev. L. Hadaway.

Vocal solo—Frank Calloway.

Address—Attorney W. W. Wright.

Music—by Chapin band.

Male Quartette composed of Frank Calloway, Walter Unken, Edwin Eckoff, and John Taylor.

Address—Attorney Paul Samuelli.

Music by the band. Five and drum.

Address—Robert Wallace.

Address—Rev. Frederick Baylis.

Music by the band.

Benediction—Rev. H. H. Herbert.

During the evening Chairman McKinney received a telegram from Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Mangrum, former residents of Chapin, congratulating the boys who were soon to leave for the army.

W. W. Wright gave a strong address, which in part was as follows:

The Principles of Republics.

"Almost a century and a half ago, our forefathers established on this continent a new principle of government, a principle for which men since the very dawn of time have fought and suffered and have given their lives, and choicest treasure—the principle that no government exists except by the consent of the governed, and is designed for the sole purpose of giving to all men, regardless of race, language or previous condition of servitude, the most full and equal opportunity to enjoy the blessings of individual life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. We have wisely made this principle the cornerstone of our government, and under its beneficent influence we have grown and expanded as a nation, and for the period of almost one hundred and fifty years the world has beheld the spectacle of a composite nationality, enjoying the most unlimited liberty, and living together in peace and happiness. "Emulating our example, the nations of the earth have one by one, thrown off the yoke of king and potentate, and have evolved for themselves a form of government similar to our own and have thus secured to their peoples the full and equal enjoyment of those inalienable rights which we have so long cherished and maintained.

A Titanic Struggle.

"We are today engaged in the most titanic struggle the world has ever witnessed—in a war involving practically all of the so-called civilized nations of the earth—and the sole and only object for which we are contending is to determine whether this principle, so dearly purchased by the price of blood and sacrifice, shall prevail throughout the world."

STUART RUSSEL
Second Lieutenant in National Army
Assigned to Quartermaster's Department.

Lieut. Russel who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Russel, attended the officers' training camp at Ft. Sheridan. He is now at Camp Grant and will in all probability go to France at a comparatively early date.

world, or whether the world shall be governed and the actions of its peoples controlled and directed at the whim of a military aristocracy.

"The choicest flower of our manhood is being summoned to lay aside the arts of peace and take up the arts of war. Personally I have no doubt as to the outcome—I have faith in the bravery and the sterling character of the American people, and in their ability to resist the aggression of any foreign power. I do not believe as our enemies seem to console themselves, that we are a race of cowards and bluffers, and that in our struggle for the almighty dollar, we have so far degenerated that we are a negligible quantity as a military factor.

Soldiers Will Honor Us.

"I have faith that these young men of Morgan County will uphold the high traditions of the past, and that never, in field or camp, will they be untrue to their ancestry and to their flag.

"We expect that they shall honor and cherish this flag of their country, and that they will follow and protect it tho it may lead them to the place where the point is bluntest, to the sands where human life is blotted, and the husky sun hides a bitter noon.

"We will fight on to victory, to the end that generations yet unborn, shall be free from the menace of a military aristocracy and that all the peoples of the earth, be they great or small, weak or powerful, shall be given the equal right to security and freedom and self-government, and to a participation upon fair terms in the economic opportunities of the world."

Turning from Peace to War.

Paul Samuelli, in his excellent address said in part:

"This is no time for unbridled oratory—for worded pictures that would lead us to think only of pleasure and not of hardships, only success and not of failure, only of result and not of effort. Our ideas must not be built on false foundations. On the contrary we must realize the seriousness of such an occasion.

"Only a few months ago we were enjoying the days of peace, prosperity and plenty. Our bins, cribs and cupboards were full. We were at peace and entertained no unpleasant thought of war. But trouble and dissonance arose across the water and suddenly powerful nations were engaged in a death grip. We were critical; it seemed absurd that civilized, christian nations that have made such rapid strides in science, art, education, religion and culture should so forget themselves that they would use a torch of destruction to destroy thousands upon thousands of lives in a day.

"Our rights as neutral Americans were invaded but we were loathe to believe that such encroachment was deliberate. We were at peace and had no thought or intention of wronging any one. Why should any one injure us? But the invasions became more frequent and we became more anxious until the German government was asked for an apology.

What War Means.

"Yet we hated war. No man has imagination enough to paint the agonies, the horrors and cruelties of war. Think of sending shot and shell crashing thru the bodies of men. The widows and orphans. Think of the maimed and mutilated. How we hated war. How we pitied those men in the trenches, the heart-broken mothers, wives and sweethearts. Yet could we sit idly by and see a government dedicated to absolute military rule strike down her neighbors and then laugh at our independence? No not while red blood flowed thru the veins of American citizens. Pity pointed to the scarred and bleeding humans of Europe. Man heard the sobs of mothers bereft of babes and happiness and justice finally held the scales in which one drop of blood shed by a military tyrant outweighed our nation's gold and desires for happiness and comfort. We could no longer tolerate the atrocities. Our limit was reached and patience exhausted. We concluded that war was the only thing that would bring permanent peace."

"And so our die has been cast. We have indicted the German Emperor with his military autocracy whose sole object is personal aggrandisement that he, his military friends and his posterity may live in luxury and eventually become the dictator of the world. Sacrificing millions of his devoted means nothing to him. Gradually the clutches of this hydra-headed monarch has reached every corner of the world and is closing firmly upon every nation, step by step, until it could and would strangle America and every other nation in the world.

"America therefore declared war.

No nation in the world could more conscientiously resist such actions. One hundred and forty one years ago our country with a handful of righteous men rebelled against such a tyrannical monarch and she has been the shining star of the democratic form of government since then.

The Soldiers' Duty.

"And now you the first soldiers of the draft are about to follow the examples of your forefathers and the duty of your nation. You are forming the nucleus of a gigantic army who will fight for no individual but for the country, not for continual discord but lasting peace, not servitude but liberty. You are in a sense delegates to a peace convention which may cost your life and the lives of thousands of your comrades but eventually your home and friends and your posterity will enjoy that sacred freedom which is so dear and dear to you. Go then and do your duty. This banquet does by no means express our true sentiment. Words and actions fail us but never forget that our hearts and souls are with you and we wish you Godspeed."

MURRAYVILLE MEN HAVE SPECIAL WAR INTEREST

Brothers-in-Law and Each Has Son in Service — Private Fanning Writes of Army Life.

Mr. and Mrs. George Sooy, Monroe Jennings, and J. W. Fanning of Murrayville were all Jacksonville visitors Wednesday, coming to the city principally to witness the parade and exercises given during the afternoon in honor of the men drafted from Morgan county. Messrs. Fanning, Jennings and Sooy are brothers-in-law and each has a son now in the service of the United States. So these men have a great deal of interest in things military just at present and no doubt take great pride in the fact that they will have representatives at the front when the time comes for Uncle Sam to get into real action.

The cousins who are now in the service are: Reaugh Jennings, Engineers Corps, located at Washington D. C.; Earl Sooy, also in the Engineering Corps at Washington, D. C., and Ira Fanning, Hospital Reserve Corps, located at Fort Worth, Texas. Young Sooy and Fanning are former Illinois College boys.

Fanning was just a few days ago transferred from Fort Snelling, Minn., where he was first sent, to the Texas camp. Enroute he wrote Dr. F. S. Hayden, of this city, the following letter, which is reprinted by request.

On the Way to Fort Worth, Tex. My Dear Mr. Hayden:

"Somewhere in Missouri." This finds me on a troop train transferring me from the silvery lakes and the exhilarating breezes of Fort Snelling, Minn., to Fort Worth, Tex., the land of sage brush and cactus.

I received your letter asking me to give an account of myself. It pleases me to know that so much interest is shown in the boys who have recently enlisted from Illinois College. The papers you sent me were read very thoroughly. I see that the boys from I. C. are keeping up the "old time pop" in this army game as they did in school life. I read the letters of Sooy, Brown, Apple, Wilson, Bray, McLaughlin, Lashmet. To say that they were interesting to me would be speaking of them rather lightly.

Three Lines of Work Since I took my oath and joined the medical department May 24, 1917, I have taken up three different lines of work, namely: drilling and lectures; ward-master in the post hospital and clerical work on the tuberculosis examining board.

It took me almost four weeks to muster "The Rules of the Game" in drilling, as it was very hard to stand at attention when the mosquitoes persisted in taking a Waserman test of me every day. The drilling consisted of the regular drill (cavalry and infantry) drill which all medical men must have in order to know how to take care of the wounded found on the battle field.

The lectures and our studies were on physiology, hygiene, anatomy, nursing, first aid to the wounded, hospital work, medicine, chemistry and general lectures. The habit of concentration cultivated in college proves to be a valuable asset to one when he takes up so many lines of work in so short a time.

Then for five weeks I held the position as wardmaster in the post hospital. Of course, my duties were the same as our trained Red Cross nurses. If there was anything that I did not do, I am not aware of it. This was valuable experience to me. Some of my arduous duties were to keep the patients from drinking the water out of the flower vases at their bedside stands and the ice water out of the ice caps.

My last two weeks were spent with the examining board for tuberculosis. My work was all clerical work and was very easy in comparison with my former duties. We have examined 2,008 men for tuberculosis. Fourteen of them were rejected and forty-eight held in the service under observation. The former will be discharged. The latter will remain in the army.

Having completed my course of training, I was ordered with 121 medical men to a southern camp. Thirty of us will report for duty at Fort Worth, Texas, and the remainder to Fort Sill, Okla.

We have no knowledge of the duties awaiting us at Fort Worth, Tex., but I am not worrying any. I remember what you said, "Don't cross the bridge before you come to it." I am well pleased with the training that I have received in the medical department. If I were a civilian I would enlist again. Now, I am ready for action whenever and wherever my country calls me.

Very truly,
Pvt. Ira D. Fanning,
Fort Worth, Tex.,
Care Medical Department.

WEDDING CAME AS SURPRISE TO GUESTS

Iowa Paper Gives Account of Recent Marriage of Miss Leona Meek and Percy F. Whistler.

The following from the Washington, Iowa, Journal, gives an account of the recent wedding of Miss Leona Meek and Percy F. Whistler, the latter a member of the faculty of Illinois college.

Miss Leona Estelle Meek and Percy Frazz Whistler were married yesterday evening at eight o'clock at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. J. C. Meek, five miles northeast of town.

The wedding was a surprise, even to the guests who were in attendance. They had been invited to a dinner party at the Meek home for 7:30 and when they arrived found that a wedding was to precede the dinner. The bride and groom took their places to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by the bride's cousin, Miss Mazel Meek and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. M. Wishart, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church. The simple ring ceremony was used, but in spite of its simplicity the service was very impressive.

The bride was very prettily gown in white messaline and carried roses. Little Cora Alice Hays was the ring bearer and was daintily dressed in pink. Following the ceremony and congratulations, the guests, thirty in number, consisting of relatives and close friends of the participating parties, were seated in the dining room and a three-course wedding repast was served by Miss Evelyn Kerr, Miss Edna Purvis, Miss Ethel and Miss Maude McCredy, with Mrs. M. El. Dickson as caterer. The house was decorated with flowers and the color scheme was pink and white. The bride's table was lighted with pink candles and decorated with pink and white rose buds. The whole affair was very cleverly arranged in the nature of a surprise. The groom and the minister being kept in hiding until the arrival of all the guests, who didn't know there was to be a wedding until it was actually taking place.

Mr. and Mrs. Whistler will leave in a short time for Jacksonville, Ill., where Mr. Whistler is a member of the faculty of Illinois college, teaching mathematics and astronomy. Mrs. Whistler has lived her whole life in this community and has a large circle of friends who wish her and her husband a long and very happy married life. She is a graduate of the Washington Academy and of Drake university. She taught domestic science in the Washington schools, completing her third year in that position last June. She is a very attractive and capable young woman. Mr. Whistler is also a graduate of Drake and it was in that school that the romance began which culminated in the wedding of last evening. He is a splendid young man, well worthy of the bride he has just taken.

This Is the Sealy

The important point about a Mattress is what goes in it. If Pure long-fibre, air-woven Cotton is used, it's a good Mattress—a Sealy.

The SEALY SANITARY TUFTLESS MATTRESS

You Sleep Soundly on a Sealy—ask any alarm clock.

LUXURIOUSLY COMFORTABLE, ECONOMICAL

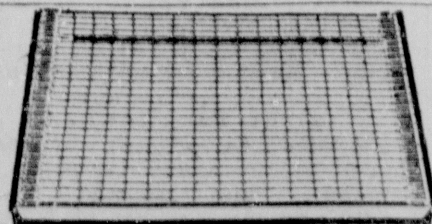

Made of pure, selected long-fibre cotton by our patented air-woven process, the Sealy is as soft as a cloud. The smooth tuftless feature so essential to perfect comfort conforms to the sleeping figure, allowing delightful relaxation, and absorbing instead of radiating heat. The long-fibre, air-woven cotton cannot harden or become matted; it never rolls into lumps or hummocks, and it retains its restful, buoyant properties permanently.

Because they are not tufted, Sealy Mattresses have no dust-gathering cavities and no stitch-holes to let dirt through to the clean, springy, air-woven cotton. Sealy Tuftless Mattresses are sanitary. You buy a Sealy Mattress and there the cost ends. Every Sealy identically the same. Different prices on different ticks. No upkeep in annual remaking—we guarantee that it keeps in perfect condition for twenty years. Read the guarantee.

The Sealy Pillow, also made by the Sealy Process, is a sweet, clean, odorless head rest.

"Sleeping on a SEALY like sleeping on a cloud."

This slogan and the trade mark stand for the best in mattress values. For thirty-five years we have been making the SEALY MATTRESS exactly as it is today.

Much Depends Upon Management
Mr. Wiggins: "Calf clubs are a good thing if rightly managed. First and foremost a careful and competent man should do the buying; the stock should not be sold and sent away in six months but should be kept longer and raised to maturity if possible. Cow testing associations are a valuable thing and there should be more of them. It is of great importance to interest more young men in the dairy. Not only the milk and butter a cow produces should be considered but the value

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give one Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, 75c.

of her calves and manure. If we have the facts we can immensely increase production of butter fat and the demand will be always great. My department is always glad to answer questions.

"At the state fair there will be a very attractive display in the dairy department and it should be seen by every farmer. I am much in favor of good stock; the better the breed the more profitable, as a rule. Be extremely careful in buying cows. For years Wisconsin has kept her choicest cows at home and sold us and others her culls; let us sell culls and not buy them. A good bull owned in a community is a good idea when no one man has enough to justify the expense of one himself."

Up Against Hard Proposition

Mr. Rhode: "The dairy cow ended pre-historic socialism. She was the first cause of a fixed abode of man. She made the second voyage with Columbus. In the early colonial days a good cow would rustle for her living in summer and supply a family with butter and later with cheese. The first cheese factory was built in 1851; the first dairy association in 1863; the first creamery in 1863 and the first one in Illinois in 1869. In 1890 Dr. Babcock perfected his tester and now the cow is found from coast to coast. It used to be said there was no cow west of Newton, Kansas, and no God west of Pueblo. There are now some twenty million cows in the land and probably 12,000 in Morgan county.

"Owners of cows are up against a stiff proposition; to keep on or to quit in this time of high prices. The University of Illinois is ready to lend all kinds of help in aiding the dairyman. Dairymen will pay with intelligent methods. Every dairyman should have a silo. Silage and alfalfa are good feeds and balanced ration.

"Try for pure bred stock or as near it as possible. If you are able only to get scrub cows by all means get a thoroughbred bull and you will have half breeds or grades; get another thoroughbred bull for those heifers and so on and in six years you will have a practically thoroughbred herd."

Informal Discussion

The meeting was then open to discussion. The question of feed was discussed. One man predicted $1.50 corn before the fall of 1918. Another said so much less would go into whiskey; so much more had been raised; so little shipping was available for its transportation that 75 cents was a possible figure. Silage, clover or alfalfa and some cottonseed meal was the best ration.

When you can sell a ton of grain or produce you sell much fertility from the soil but when you sell a ton of milk or butter you sell no soil fertility. The question of milk for cities is growing serious. It pays better and is so much less trouble to sell milk at wholesale than men are slow to undertake the retail business.

Cooperation is especially desirable. A certain number of dairymen or an association may band together in buying supplies or feed of any kind and save much.

Be careful of your credit. If you apply at a bank for an accommodation, don't go in a beseeching manner but walk erect and ask with the air of a business man and by all means, if you see you will not be able to pay when due, call on the creditor and tell him so and try to say when you will.

Be methodical; have a place for everything and everything in its place. Only a rich land like ours can afford scrub stock. Go to Canada or any European land and you will see silos and immensely better stock than we have.

Hardships of the Dealer

One man told of some of the hardships of a milk dealer. He had frequently been asked by customers to buy milk bottles they had on hand and finally when he put tab on some such he found that he was buying his own bottles which they had laid aside from time to time. Then, too, the careless way people would treat bottles; often putting into them coal oil or substances making it necessary to destroy them. People would get credit and then forget to pay or dispute a bill till a man would turn prematurely grey or be tempted to resort to strong drink to drown his sorrows.

Many more good things were said but the foregoing will give a good idea of what transpired. In brief it may be said that cows are good property when intelligently handled.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

GOES TO LOUISVILLE.

W. W. Walker who has been located in Murrayville for several years past was in the city yesterday visiting relatives and friends. Mr. Walker left last night for Louisville, Ky., where he will take the position of chief clerk in the hotels of that city. For many years Mr. Walker resided here. Recently he has been engaged in the hotel business. He was for a number of years manager of the Silag hotel in Springfield. The past summer he has been engaged in the hotel business in Michigan. He will be accompanied to Louisville by Mrs. Walker and their many friends will unite in wishing them success in their new location.

HOME FROM COLORADO.

Miss Clara Cobb has returned from a pleasant sojourn of several weeks in Denver, Colorado Springs, Manitou and various places in that vicinity. She is much improved in health and is ready for the duties which await her in the first ward school next week.

WHITE HALL MAN ABLE TO LEAVE HOSPITAL

S. G. Sykes Returns Home Much Improved in Health — Capt. Corsa Leaves for Ft. Leavenworth—New Garages to Be Erected — Gregory Farm Makes Showing at Iowa Fair — Other White Hall News.

White Hall, Sept. 4.—S. G. Sykes arrived home Friday last from Jacksonville, where he had been a patient in Passavant hospital for six weeks, undergoing a serious operation that gave his friends serious concern. Mr. Sykes is a member of the well known firm of Sykes & Fanning, and is one of the self-made and progressive young business men of White Hall. His complete restoration to health is, therefore, a matter of congratulation among his legion of friends.

Lercy Richert arrived Saturday from the Florida coast to spend a few days with his father, Charles Richert, and the folks at home before responding to the call to the colors under the draft law. He came through on a motorcycle, the distance being 1,200 miles.

M. A. Lewis is now able to sit up, and was brought down to the store Saturday, where he was greeted by the many friends. He lay practically motionless in his bed for five weeks, being afflicted with an ailment of the heart.

Ray Pearce attended the Pig Club sale at Jerseyville Friday as representative of the Breeders' Gazette, a publication recognized as the leading live stock periodical in America.

Capt. Dean Corsa departed Monday night for Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, to go into training with the Engineering Officers' reserve corps. Capt. Corsa had charge of arrangements for the observance of Patriotic Day in White Hall last Sunday in connection with the chautauqua program of the day, and marshaled a splendid parade of veterans of previous wars and volunteers and drafted men in the present war. The parade was headed by the Rawlins Concert band of Roodhouse and marched to the chautauqua grounds where they were addressed by Judge Norman L. Jones of Carrollton. The proceedings were carried out very impressively.

Ernest Pearce is here from Galesburg this week in advance of his going into training for service under the draft law.

Gregory Farm Wins Prizes.

Gregory Farm made a great showing at the state fair at Des Moines, Ia., last week with its herd of Berkshire hogs, capturing first prize on senior and junior yearling boars, third and fourth on senior pig, second and third on senior yearling sow, first on aged herd (open to the world), first on aged herd bred by exhibitor, and third on get of boar, get of sire and produce of dam.

Mrs. O. Holcomb departed Monday for Galesburg, where the family has decided to locate, and where the son, John, recently engaged in the photograph business. Her husband preceded her some weeks ago, and the daughter, Miss Olga, will go there the middle of the present month, she completing the departure of this splendid family from White Hall.

J. W. Carr was up from St. Louis Monday to spend Labor Day among relatives.

New Garages To Be Here.

Two new garages are to be erected at White Hall, making three of them of an elaborate character, including the one now operated by A. E. Hudson. W. W. Evans, as before noted in these columns, will erect one on the site of the hotel property recently moved from just north of the Princess theatre, and now Henley Cain, of Roodhouse, has bought a site on South Main street, opposite the Strang livery, and there he will erect a third garage for White Hall, 60x80 feet or thereabouts on an elaborate scale. Cain will continue to operate his garage at Roodhouse.

Dr. H. C. Campbell has gone to Gillespie, Macoupin county, to take the practice of a physician who has been called to army duty. Dr. Campbell has sold his office building and practice here to Dr. J. S. Billings, and the family will follow later. As soon as the Campbell residence on West Bridgeport street is vacated, it will be occupied by Frank Zerenberg and family.

Mrs. Wm. Gollier met with a painful accident Monday by running her hand through a window pane, badly lacerating the member.

G. B. Danforth is dangerously ill. Mr. Danforth is a veteran of the Civil war, and has always been a prominent figure in the affairs of White Hall.

Misses Grace Ballow and Julia Terrant, of Taylorville, are guests of White Hall relatives.

Miss Florence Browning, linotype operator in the office of the Republican-Register, left Saturday for St. Louis to take up linotype work in the Missouri metropolis, for which she is well equipped. It has not been learned who gets the place here.

Plan Chautauqua Program.

Public attention is pretty well turned to a contemplation of the chautauqua program for next year. While there is some agitation for the strongest possible program covering a less number of days, it is also to be borne in mind that the number of campers will be greatly increased this year, and the eight-day session fits the bill to a nicety for those who have adopted the occasion for the annual vacation outing in "the Alps of Greene county." The White Hall chautauqua has some to stay, its permanence being assured by the backing it is receiving from among the most substantial citizens, who want to make it the leading affair of the kind in this section of the state. It affords the right kind of an opportunity for the coming together of relatives and friends annually under an environment that is the very best. Next year a band will be used throughout the week to fill in at times when there is a shortage of entertaining features that give opportunity for noisiness that is not altogether pleasant to all the campers. The program construction is right now occupying the attention of the directors and in this matter the general public is taking keen interest. The trend of opinion leans to the idea of bringing home some of the bright minds who have gone out from White Hall and made a mark in the world. It would give delight to hear addresses by such men as Judge M. D. Purdy of Minneapolis, known as the official trust buster under the Roosevelt administration; Hon. C. J. Moynihan of Montrose, Colo., a possibility for the governorship of that state; State Senator Eugene Lane of Lewiston, Mont., whose friends in that state have been urging him to make the race for the governorship, and who is among the most remarkable business successes among the White Hall boys; John R. Stanton, now president of the Stanton & VanCleave publishing concern of Chicago, and many others whose names will be suggested with the development of this idea, including some in military life who by the time for the next chautauqua arrives might be spared to come with the message of those only who know what it is to defend the rights and honor of the country. What a glorious occasion it would make to sing, "The King's Business," one of the immortal hymns written by the White Hall girl, Flora Hamilton Cassel, who met with a tragic death in an automobile accident in Colorado three years ago. The galaxy of successes might here be enlarged, but these will suffice as a pointer to those who have the destiny of the White Hall chautauqua in hand, and the idea is presented for what it is worth.

RETURNED FROM MATANZAS.

Porter Corrington brought back from Matanzas lake his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Corrington and two daughters of the vicinity of Alexandria. They were part of a party consisting of Mrs. U. G. Woolman and daughter and mother, Mrs. Dickson of St. Louis and C. W. Temple and wife of St. Louis. The others rode home by train. Mr. Corrington found some pretty bad roads and his Overland car was well plastered, especially above Chandlerville where they have been working the roads. He came thru without an accident.

IN FIRST QUOTA.

McGregor Bancroft, son of W. A. Bancroft of this city and who has been residing in Cleveland, Ohio, was among Morgan county men who left yesterday to enter a training camp preparatory to U. S. army service. The young man will be located at Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, O. He was born in this city and is a graduate of the local high school, where he gained some prominence in athletics.

THE RED CROSS FLAG.

The decorations about the square and in the business district yesterday were the subject of much favorable comment and this was especially true of the Red Cross flag suspended in front of the Red Cross shop on West State street. The flag measured 13 x 17 feet and showed a red flag on a field of white.

SOLDIER PRAISES BOOK "A STUDENT IN ARMS"

Volume from Pen of Young Officer
Full of Potent Paragraphs.

A local physician's wife has received the following letter from her sister who is state librarian of Oregon. The letter was written by a young student officer in one of the training camps in the northwest and while it speaks highly of the one book in particular which was placed in his hands by the librarian, it also shows that our soldier boys are going to appreciate the reading material which most of us could be of great assistance in supplying.

The letter follows:
I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart for putting "A Student in Arms" into my hands. I did not have time to finish reading it on the train—there were too many tempting paragraphs that cried for a second and third reading, but I did not close my eyes last night until I had lingered sorrowfully over the last paragraph because it was the last.

I remember having read no book so stimulating. Perhaps I was in just the right mood to enjoy it most, but at any rate it seized me and would not let me go. I was most interested in the man and his worthy religion. The constant suggestion of his own system of faith and worship is most inspiring. His little stories roused the initiative spirit in me—I longed to be like him. I couldn't help wishing that he had removed that disfiguring mustache. It hid so much of the man's character.

I wonder if there was ever a book that rang so truly sincere without inharmonious notes of egotism. He unravels such a lot of problems of the earth earthy and weaves them so dexterously into a garment of such wondrous wearing qualities. In his book there is little that is weak, much that is strong; nothing ephemeral and a great deal that will endure.

He made me glad that I seek to become an officer but admonished me to be content with anything the war may bring. I'm sure his teachings will bear fruit in the conduct of one officer at least, if he is commissioned. Miss Lydia M. Barrette, librarian at the local Carnegie institution, stated yesterday that she now has this book of which the soldier speaks, ready for circulation.

NOTICE.

Principal Callahan will be at his office in the high school building each day this week beginning Wednesday, from 9 to 12 a. m. and 2 to 4 p. m. Pupils who have not registered for the year should do so this week. All who have been doing work this summer in preparation for entrance examination should also attend to these matters at once.

Walter Fearnheyhough of Lynnville precinct traveled to the city yesterday.

REVOLT OF BROWNSST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 5.—Responding to a call from Manager Fielder
Jones of the St. Louis American League team, Phil Ball, owner of the club, hurried to Sportsman's Park today to find some of his players on the verge of revolt.A morning paper had quoted Ball as saying that some of his men were "laying down" and that only three players, Austin, Sisler and Severid, were giving the club their best services.Ball faced the players in the club house and demanded to know what was the trouble."We want to know if the statements credited to you are true," one of the players said. "Did you say we were laying down? Did you say you would cut salaries $100 for every $1,000 you lost on the season?"Ball explained that he told the reporter that some of his friends had told him the players were "laying down", but that he (Ball) was not competent to judge. He declared that he meant what he said about the salaries cut."I will pay for the kind of ball I receive," he said. "That's fair, I think you will agree."The revolt ended and all the regulars were in the line up.PEORIA DEFEATS DETROIT.Peoria, Ill., Sept. 5.—The Peoria

this youngster lives in a wide-awake, prosperous community. He is one of a wide-awake, prosperous family. He goes to school—and it's a good school, too. He learns a lot of things there besides the three R's.

—for the school is the social centre of the community. Its atmosphere is vigorous, healthy, inspiring.

When he grows up he'll take his place beside his dad as a leader of the community. He'll do his share to make his community a better place to live in. He's a citizen in the making.

What makes a community prosperous—a good place for a youngster to grow up in? Business, for one thing! The town stores and the town banks are the business heart of every community. No community ever prospered because of the money that was sent away.

Buy at home. The more business you give your local merchants the better they can serve you. The more prosperous will you all become. Better schools, better roads, better churches, better homes—these are a few of the landmarks of the prosperous, wide-awake community. Give the youngsters who are growing up a chance.

Buy your groceries from your local grocer. He is always ready to serve you. Hundreds of grocers throughout central Illinois have been selling BUNNY BRAND Pure Food Products for years. BUNNY BRAND groceries are so good, and so reasonably priced, that they will satisfy the most exacting housewife. The firm that guarantees them has always stood back of the local grocer.

Some Things You May Not Know

By Ensley Moore

(Member Illinois State Historical Society)

The approaching centennial of Illinois gives reason to consider some things in its history, which while not directly applying to Jacksonville, have had more or less influence upon it.

Mines.

It is so customary now to think of California, Colorado and other western states as mining regions that we are apt to overlook the early mining enterprises of Illinois.

The most popular and profitable of these were at Galena, and in its vicinity where lead was found. This gave a supply of this mineral near Jacksonville, and led more or less of the citizens of this place to go up to Jo Daviess county to make temporary or permanent residence there. Lead was found near Galena, in Wisconsin, also near Dubuque, in Iowa.

An amusing result of the craze which took men to Galena was afterwards seen in

"The Galena Crowd."

Naturally, many of the men who sought their fortunes in the mining place were of ability and of ambition, and, as the lead business became less attractive and Chicago grew, a considerable number of the brightest prospectors at Galena sought fortunes in the growing city at the foot of Lake Michigan. There was a bond of union between these and those left behind in Galena; so, during the War and after Grant's successes in it and his becoming President, these people turned up in politics, secured positions and prominence, and were known as "the Galena crowd." They were very successful in politics and office, whether or not they had been so in digging mineral.

The Explorers and Settlers.

First of white men, in the latter part of the seventeenth century, Marquette, Joliet, LaSalle, Hennepin and other Frenchmen, with Tonti, the Italian with the iron hand, came from Canada, into the land of the Illinois—"full grown men."

In 1712 the King of France, with great, and no doubt unintended, generosity, gave the whole country—including that to the south and west, known as Louisiana—to M. Crozat. Crozat surrendered his claims to the king, in 1717. Then came Law's "Mississippi Company," with M. Bienville as governor. In 1719 La Harpe commanded a fort with French troops not far from the mouth of the Missouri. Forts were soon after built in Illinois, Ft. Chartres being the strongest. Thus a line of communications was established from Canada to the mouth of the Mississippi.

An early authority says the name of the great river, in the aboriginal was in French spelling and sound, "Meate Chassippi," said to signify "Father of Waters," or "Great Waters."

This stream was the artery of early communication and settlement by the whites.

Long years after, Edna Dean Proctor wrote: "Down the silent Mississippi, with his saintly soul aflame, Twice a hundred years are numbered since Marquette, rejoicing, came."

Over eighty years ago, Jno. M. Peck wrote: "The oldest record or document in the state is at Kaskaskia, dated 1725. It is a petition to Louis XV., King of France, asking a grant of common fields, commons, etc., stating their great sufferings the preceding year, (1724) from the great flood which swept away all their improvements, and obliged the people to flee to the bluffs opposite the village, and across the Kaskaskia river."

After the French and Indian War, in 1763, the Illinois country and Canada were ceded to the English. They in turn had to give up Illinois to Col. George Rogers Clarke, in 1778, and from thence this was American. The Spanish meantime had had short sway over this beautiful land.

That year, 1778, Virginia organized the county of Illinois, and appointed a lieutenant-governor, named Timothy Dementrun to rule over it. Virginia ceded the land, as part of the North West territory to the United States. In 1800 Illinois became a part of Indiana territory. In 1809, the territory of Illinois was established, and, in 1818 the state was admitted into the Federal Union.

Animals.

In the early days—after Clarke's coming—this state had big animals, if it had not giants.

The buffalo had not then ceased to shake the prairies with the rush of its thousands of feet. The big bovines disappeared about 1800.

There were wolves, panthers and wild cats here when the early settlers came. Deer were very numerous "and are valuable to that class of our population which has been raised to frontier habits; the flesh, affording them food, and the skins, clothing. Fresh venison hams usually sell for twenty five cents each, and when properly cured are a delicious article," wrote Dr. Peck in 1834.

The "Old J." writer can recall the fine taste of fresh venison—garnished in Pike Co. Mr. F. L. Sharpe has stated that his father killed the last deer in Pike county, about 1870.

Dr. Peck said: "It is a novel and pleasant sight to a stranger, to see the deer in flocks of eight, ten, or fifteen, in number, feeding on the grass of the prairies, or bounding away at sight of the traveller."

The brown bear walked around on his hind legs, and took an aristocratic delight in his freedom.

Muskies, otters, "and occasionally beavers" were here, to say nothing of foxes, opossums, gophers and squirrels and rabbits.

Peck said: "Wild horses are found ranging the prairies and forests in some parts of the state. They are small in size, of the Indian or Canadian breed, and very hardy. * * They are found chiefly in the lower end of the American Bottom (below Alton) near the junction of the Kaskaskia and Mississippi rivers, called the Point. They are the offspring of the horses brought there by the first settlers, and which were suffered to run at large. The Indians of the West have many such horses, which are commonly called Indian ponies."

Old geographers used to have pictures of wild horses being caught on the plains of Texas.

Salt.

A valuable product of Illinois in its early days as a state was salt. The places where it was found were called salines. They were in the south east part of the state and near Danville. At first the farmers exchanged their produce for salt, thereby helping themselves and the manufacturers of the needed season.

The water was secured by boring about two hundred feet in some places, in others four hundred feet. The state kept a watchful eye on the supply for this valuable product, owning the springs and leasing them.

Vegetables.

It may not have occurred to many persons, but the virgin soil will often do wonders that "intensive cultivation" may know nothing about.

Dr. Peck said of the tomato, (then new to cultivation as an edible): "It is only necessary to plant it once, after which it comes up every year spontaneously, and bears abundantly from the middle of summer, till nipped by the frost."

"Thousands of bushels of onions have been raised with no other labor than sowing the seed broadcast on new ground, and as to their quality, it would do the heart of a Wethersfield lady good to look at them. That goodly town of Connecticut would be depopulated, if its worthy inhabitants could see the onion fields of Morgan county and the Military Tract."

Grapes.

No doubt many residents of Jacksonville can remember picking wild grapes.

Dr. Peck said of them:

"In most parts of the state, grape vines, indigenous to the country, are abundant, which yield grapes which might advantageously be made into excellent wine. Foreign vines are susceptible of easy cultivation. * * The indigenous vines are prolific, and produce excellent fruit. They are found in every variety of soil, interwoven in every thicket in the prairies and barrens; and climbing to the tops of the very highest trees. The French in early times made so much wine as to export some to France; upon which the proper authorities prohibited the introduction of wine from Illinois, lest it might injure the sale of that staple article of the kingdom. I have not the document at hand that will attest this fact, but of its truth there is no doubt, and I think the act was passed by a board of trade, in 1774."

The Editor of the Illinois Magazine remarks: We know one gentleman who made twenty seven barrels of wine in a single season, from grapes gathered with but little labor in his immediate neighborhood."

MAY HAVE TO USE MEATS LARGELY FOR FLAVOR

Average Americans May Be Forced to Follow Italians Example.

Hominy Grits.

"You don't eat grits or rice?" The Vermont woman shook her head.

"Well, what do you put your gravy on?" was the puzzled question of the Southern woman.

Food economists must answer this if meats stay at present prices. For average Americans will have to learn to use meats as the Italians do, largely for the flavor. Then the something cheap to put your gravy on is necessary. Grits make an ideal "something", and moreover is a corn product and so a patriotic food.

In the far South hominy grits is a breakfast dish, a dinner dish, or a supper dish. It goes well and quickly with bacon or ham for breakfast. Sometimes a Southern child will stir into his grits soft-boiled egg, making a complete meal. Usually it is eaten with gravy or butter.

TO COOK HOMINY GRITS. Wash thoroughly. Allow three cups of water to one cup of hominy. Salt water to taste. Cook in a single boiler until hominy begins to thicken. Then set on back of stove or on asbestos mat and cook slowly until done. Hominy needs about an hour's cooking. It bums very easily. It is much improved by beating in half a cup of milk just before dishing up. The pan in which hominy has been cooked should be put to soak in cold water at once. If hot hominy is poured into a deep dish it can be turned out when cold, cut in slices and browned under the broiler or fried like much. Fried hominy is usually served with duck. It is also an appreciated addition for breakfast.

BAKED HOMINY GRITS. Cook one cup of hominy as directed above. While hot stir in one well-beaten egg and enough milk to make a very thick batter, and a little bacon fat. Bake in deep dish until firmly set. Time depends on depth of dish. Serve with spoon from dish. Baked hominy toast and bacon is a most satisfactory breakfast. It may be used as a dinner dish like a vegetable. Baked hominy is liked by all who try it.

Those who wish to try out hominy are advised not to serve it as a breakfast food with milk and sugar. It is too starchy to be satisfactory; it needs the flavor of the meat or egg. Serving it as a breakfast food will only prejudice the family against a really valuable food.

HOSPITAL ATTACHE TELLS EXPERIENCE

Carrie Marks Expresses Deep Gratitude for the Relief Tanlac Gave Her

Miss Carrie Marks, 1201 South Main street, this city, is among the latest to offer praise for Tanlac, the celebrated new medicine. Miss Marks has been employed at the Jacksonville State hospital for Insane for the past eleven years and she is well known here.

"For years I've suffered from stomach trouble and nervousness," Miss Marks said on May 18. "My work necessitates me being on my feet practically all the time and I'll tell you, it was a job for me to get around at times. My meals never agreed with me and I couldn't sleep at night."

"When I learned of the good Tanlac was doing for others I decided to try the new medicine. I certainly have improved greatly. I sleep much better at night now and I thoroughly enjoy my meals. I'm not nearly so nervous and find my work much easier than before. I intend to continue using Tanlac for I'm convinced it is a fine medicine."

Tanlac is now being specially introduced and explained in Jacksonville at the East and West side stores of the Coover-Shreve Drug Co. It is sold in Waverly at the Wyle Drug Co.; in New Berlin at the New Berlin Drug Co.; in Ashland at H. O. Brownback's; in Versailles at A. G. Bates'; in Chapin at F. P. McKinney's; in Roodhouse at W.
